Andrew is a skilled real estate and corporate attorney who focuses his practice on all aspects of commercial real estate transactions, with a particular emphasis on the retail and restaurant industries, mixed-use development and warehouse leasing.

His clients include public and private companies, shopping center owners, nonprofit organizations and closely held businesses.

Andrew is experienced in all types of commercial leasing transactions for both landlords and tenants. He prepares agreements for both buyers and sellers regarding the acquisition and sale, financing, property management and development for a range of projects.

He also advises clients on a broad variety of real estate matters such as corporate and personal guaranties, assignments and subleasing, non-judicial foreclosure, default rights and remedies, easements, due diligence investigations, and restrictive covenants.

In addition, Andrew provides business counseling on corporate governance issues, entity formation, and operating agreements involving real estate projects.
