Steve represents businesses and individuals in complex commercial disputes. He has litigated matters before the federal and state courts at both the trial and appellate levels.

His experience includes:

- commercial leasing disputes
- construction disputes
- contract and U.C.C. claims
- copyright
- deceptive trade practices claims
- estate litigation
- insurance issues
- post-judgment collection
- restrictive covenants
- shareholder and partnership disputes
- trade secrets
- trademark infringement

Steve has also handled matters involving the federal Telephone Consumer Protection Act, the New Jersey Consumer Fraud Act, and the New Jersey Truth-in-Consumer Contract, Warranty, and Notice Act.

He is a graduate of the Lawrenceville School, Georgetown University, and Fordham University School of Law.

Before Fox Rothschild

Steve was a summer associate at Fox Rothschild where he researched and composed memoranda on various legal issues, edited briefs to the Appellate Division of the New Jersey Superior Court, drafted interrogatories and requests for production for the litigation department and attended hearings in both federal district court and state court.

While attending Fordham University School of Law, Steve served on the staff of the Fordham Intellectual Property, Media & Entertainment Law Journal, Volume XXII. He was also previously a judicial intern for the Honorable Anthony J. Mellaci, Jr. of the New Jersey Superior Court.

While attending Georgetown University, Steve worked for Students of Georgetown Inc., also known as The Corp, the largest entirely student-run 501(c)(3) nonprofit corporation in the world.
