Brian concentrates his practice on education and construction law. Former managing partner of the firm's Blue Bell office and past co-chair of the firm's Construction Law Group, Brian is also a past chair of the Montgomery Bar Construction Law Committee and the Montgomery Bar Rules of the Orphans' Court Committee.

Brian has represented numerous school entities as Solicitor and Special Counsel for more than 25 years. He has extensive experience regarding special education matters, as well as general education, school construction, procurement, technology, charter school, student and employment matters.

Brian currently leads the firm's special education team, supervising six attorneys who focus their practices on special education from the child find and IEP processes through due process and state and federal court appeals.

Brian has extensive experience representing public and private sector owners in major construction renovation projects, having served as general construction counsel or special counsel on more than fifty major construction projects with a value of more than $750,000,000. He has successfully represented architects, developers, contractors and subcontractors in the defense and prosecution of complex construction claims.
