Christian is a partner in Fox Rothschild's Litigation Department and maintains a diverse practice representing businesses, individuals, and governmental entities in connection with a wide range of business, governance, commercial, real estate, employment, and civil rights disputes at both the trial and appellate levels.

Christian regularly counsels clients in the housing, property management, senior housing, and real estate industries on compliance with their statutory and regulatory obligations under the Fair Housing Act, the Americans with Disabilities Act, Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973, and similar statutes, and defends his clients against claims brought by aggrieved parties under those statutes in jurisdictions throughout the country.

Christian also has extensive experience representing clients in connection with complex business litigation, arbitration and alternative dispute resolution, including:

- Employment related litigation, including traditional discrimination based claims and complex restrictive covenant disputes
- Unfair trade and business practice and unfair competition claims
- Misappropriation of trade secret claims
- Directors' and officers' liability and corporate governance
- Shareholder and partnership disputes
- Shareholder derivative actions
- Books and records actions
- Copyright and trademark disputes
- Software development and licensing disputes
- Breach of fiduciary duty claims
- Disputes arising from the sale, leasing, and other disposition of real estate
- Errors and omissions claims
- Lending disputes and related matters, including foreclosures, enforcement and avoidance of confessed judgments, workouts, and related matters
- Litigation on behalf of planned community, homeowners, and condominium associations
