A skilled litigator and trial lawyer with experience representing clients in state and federal courts across multiple jurisdictions, Dominique focuses his practice on complex intellectual property litigation involving patents, trademarks and copyrights.

He provides strategic representation to small, medium and large businesses in manufacturing, retail, media and other industries, assisting them with matters of trademark and copyright infringement, unfair competition and false advertising.

Beyond intellectual property, Dominique also serves as outside general counsel to privately held businesses. He provides legal advice on a wide range of matters including contract negotiations, risk mitigation and regulatory compliance, in addition to providing management and staff training.

His experience extends to:

- contract and partnership disputes
- fiduciary duties issues
- commercial leasing disputes
- fraud
- directors' and officers' liability
- labor and employment disputes
- environmental litigation

Before Fox Rothschild

Prior to joining Fox, Dominique was a litigation associate for four years at a New Jersey law firm.

A graduate of Rutgers University, Dominique went on to earn J.D. and MBA degrees in a joint business and law curriculum at the University of Illinois. He received several awards at the school, earning top marks while serving as an editor of the Illinois Business Law Journal. During law school, he served as a research assistant to corporate governance professor Nicola Sharpe. He was also a summer associate in the Chicago office of a national law firm.

After law school, Dominique worked in labor relations, where he gained experience in advising managers and employees on compliance with employment laws, analyzing union proposals and coordinating appropriate responses, and investigating alleged violations of company policies and legal regulations.

Beyond Fox Rothschild

Dominique was selected to the 2021 Class of Pathfinders for the Leadership Council on Legal Diversity (LCLD), which consists of more than 300 corporate chief legal officers and law firm managing partners who are committed to creating a more diverse and inclusive legal profession.
