Jaemin Chang is a member of the firm's litigation department and represents private clients in real estate and business litigation matters throughout California. She handles commercial litigation matters, including business torts, trade secret disputes, shareholder and partnership disputes, breach of contract, non-compete, and directors and officers liability matters. Additionally, Jaemin counsels individuals, officers, directors, and companies on all aspects of business litigation.

Her representative matters include:

- Obtained a voluntary dismissal of fraudulent transfer, fraud and breach of fiduciary duty claims against directors and officers of an insolvent company through a dispositive motion. The Court agreed with the defense that plaintiffs failed to meet the pleading standards for fraud, alter ego or successor liability and that the internal affairs doctrine barred their breach of fiduciary duty claim. Subsequently, the plaintiffs elected to dismiss rather than amend their complaint.
- Obtained a defense judgment on behalf of a property owner against claims of unlawful business practice and fraud.
- Substituted in as counsel of record shortly before trial and obtained a defense judgment against a breach of real estate sale contract claims and an award of damages on counterclaims.
- Obtained a walk-away settlement on behalf of a director and acquiring company facing breach of contract and fraudulent transfer claims.
- Defended majority shareholders, directors, and officers against breach of fiduciary duty and fraud claims.
- Successfully negotiated a multimillion-dollar settlement in an international litigation involving a joint venture contract dispute.
- Obtained summary judgment on behalf of an employer against sexual harassment claims.
- Successfully prosecuted fraud and contract claims on behalf of shareholders against an acquiring corporation.
- Successfully prosecuted securities fraud and breach of promissory note claims on behalf of a victim of Ponzi scheme.
