Sal has nearly four decades of experience handling medical staff, patient care, behavioral health, bioethical, confidentiality, governance and labor management issues for medical centers and hospital networks. He provides guidance to boards, corporate officers and senior decision-makers on risk management, regulatory compliance, corporate leadership, employment and workforce policy, as well as various malpractice claims and litigation management.

Sal's experience as general counsel for a major New York City medical center and hospital corporation allows him to provide nuanced counsel on labor relations and sensitive medical legal and mental health issues. He has overseen a number of major lawsuits, including class actions, and has spearheaded integral risk-management and corporate policy initiatives.

Before Fox Rothschild

Prior to joining Fox, Sal was the senior vice president, general counsel, secretary to the board of directors and a corporate officer at the NYC Health+Hospitals, which includes 11 acute care hospitals, four long-term care facilities six diagnostic treatment centers, a health maintenance organization, an accountable care organization and a certified home health agency.

Beyond Fox Rothschild

Sal has been an adjunct Professor of Law at Brooklyn Law School since 2009. Prior to this, he held a position as Adjunct Assistant Professor at the New York University School of Continuing and Professional Studies (1994-2002).
