Sharon handles a variety of labor and employment matters, including assisting clients with employee engagement and retention, as well as workforce reductions. She works with clients to draft employee handbooks and personnel policies, employment contracts, independent contractor agreements and separation agreements. Sharon also defends businesses against employee lawsuits.

Before Fox Rothschild

While an undergraduate at the University of California, Irvine, Sharon was a cultural and political community organizer. As a campus leader, she worked with university administration, professors and students to implement positive changes and protections for future students of all backgrounds, including the UC Regents' "Statement of Principles Against Intolerance."
